

Alaskan Crab

Introduce

This crab has long been awarded the title of King crab , due to its different shape with the size of the claws being more than 2m long. This crab lives in the icy waters of Alaska and the Bering Sea, and can live up to 20 years. That big and long stride is also a way for this crab to adapt to the harsh living environment. Its meat is considered to be the purest, the meat is of top quality. The chunks of sweet, chewy white meat hide behind a rosy shell, with only a hint of the salty, sweet, and fragrant sea.
